A. C. A. HOLDS INTERESTING MEETING

Committee Appointed to Secure Immediate Action on New State Road

NOTICE TO PAY UP DUES

A very important meeting of the Antioch Commercial Association was held at the Village hall last Saturday evening and various matters of importance were discussed. The meeting was called to order at 8:45 and as the president of the association, Chase Webb, was not in attendance, F. B. Huber was selected to serve as president pro tem. Alderman A. J. Cermak of Chicago was expected to be present to talk on organization but was unavoidably prevented from attending. In his absence Geo. B. Johnson addressed the meeting in regard to the necessity of organization in regard to road improvement.

The motion was made and seconded that a committee of five be appointed to act upon the matter of road improvement. The president then appointed Anton Cermak, chairman; C. W. Martin, C. B. Willey, Robert Tarrant and Geo. B. Johnson, secretary.

It was next moved and seconded that a committee of five be appointed to collect donations from the business men of the village, the amount collected to be placed in the treasury of the association, to be used for public benefit. This committee consists of H. J. Vos, F. R. King and Geo. B. Johnson. Three donations were voluntarily made at the meeting as follows: Robert Tarrant $100.00, C. W. Martin, $100.00, C. B. Willey $100.00.

It was moved and seconded that the Association give its support to the Redpath lecture course, which is to be held here this fall and winter and guarantee the sum of $500.00, same to apply on the payment of the five numbers which will be selected by a committee composed of Mrs. W. F. Ziegler and Rev. S. E. Pollock.

It was moved that the association arrange for the support of the Antioch band at its next regular meeting.

The matter of preserving the church bell that was cracked while ringing out the glad tidings of peace on November 11, of last year, was talked over but no definite action was taken at this time but the matter was taken under advisement and will be taken up later.

Notice to Members of the Antioch Commercial Association.

On account of the numerous donations for war funds which you have all so liberally contributed, the Antioch Commercial Association have relieved you from all monthly dues from Oct. 1, 1918, up to and including the month of April 1919. All paid up dues exceeding the month of October will be credited to your account and forwarded.

It Isn't Your Town—It's YOU

If you want to live in the kind of a town like the kind of a town you like, You needn't slip your clothes in a grip And start on a long, long hike, You'll only find what you left behind, For there's nothing that's really new, It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town—

It isn't your town it's YOU.

Real towns are not made by men afraid, Lest somebody else gets ahead, When every one works and nobody shirks, You can raise a town from the dead, And if while you make your personal stake

Your neighbor can make one too, Your town will be what you want to see; It isn't your town it's YOU.

You will be notified of the next regular meeting subject to the call of the president. Kindly attend and bring a prospective member.

Tight Lacing.

A New York lady while visiting in the West had some experience with a cyclone. While asleep at a friend's, the house was blown down and the lady pinned to the earth by a rafter. It was supposed she was crushed, but when they dug her out she opened her eyes and sleepily murmured: "Jane, I feel a little uncomfortable; unfasten my corsets."

Antioch and Lake County Victory Liberty Loan

Up to the time of going to press sum of $18,500 has been subscribed our quota of $63,500 of the Victory Loan. This amount represents sixty subscribers. All subscriptions so far received have been voluntary and it is thought that a thorough campaign and solid will not be necessary.

If you are planning to help along the loan, don't wait to be asked, just into either of the banks and make voluntary subscription.

Chase Webb, chairman of the Victory Loan committee, has appointed the Boy Scouts as solicitors. No solicitors have been appointed for village limits and the boys will be expected to canvass this territory. An agreement with the treasurer-partment the Scouts are only allowed to work the last week of the loan securing ten subscriptions a Scout will receive a service medal from the government. Three medals were secured during the third Liberty loan, any of the boys are hoping to win in this last chance. The boys will work under the direction of Scoutmaster E. Pollock and Assistant W. S. H. C. Burnett, Lake county victory loan chairman, announced that all probability, the county as a whole has subscribed 30 per cent of its quota. Lake Forest, he said, had reached the 45 per cent mark and was climbing vigorously. Waukegan sales were fair, but not booming.

Committee Appointed by President

At the last meeting of the village board the following committee were appointed:

Board of Health—B. F. Nier, Dr.

Finance Committee—H. J. Vos, H. Osmond, Herbert

Streets and Alleys—Fred Hawkins, Herbert Vos, Wm. Dupre,

Light and Lighting—Wm. Dupre, Nason Sibley.

Water Commissioner—Nason Sibley, Collector—J. C. James

Village tapper—D. B. Sabin, Fire Marshal—P. O. Hawkins,

Marshal—Wm. Gray, Collector Special Assessment—Elmer

Brook, Water, Well, etc.—W. H. Osmond, Fred Hawkins, L. B. Grice.

Dram shop applications were made by J. J. Morley, Henry Herman, John Melburg and John Corbett. Same were granted at the rate of $800 per year, to be issued to June 30th, 1919.

Notice

Your attention is called to Section 22, page 33, of Water and Sewer Ordinance of village of Antioch: "Cess Pool and Privy Valt. Property Abutting on the Sanitary Sewer."

The Antioch Commercial Association are working with new energy to obtain New State Aid road through the village of Antioch without unnecessary delay.

It will be necessary to comply with this section of the city ordinance in order to pave same.

All parties wishing to connect to sanitary sewer, kindly notify village clerk as soon as possible.

W. R. WILLIAMS, Superintendent of Water Works.

Thos Gaggin Sues

O. Hove for Damages

The trial of Gaggin vs. Hove was held before J. C. James last Friday afternoon. The case is one in which Gaggin sued Hove for $100 claiming that the defendant after having sold to him a certain amount of cattle, had later sold the same cattle to another party. Hove acknowledged this to be a fact but claimed a right to do so.

The case was first called before H. A. Isaacs but a change of venue was taken.

The jury returned a verdict in favor of the complainant, and awarded him damages to the extent of $42.00.

Hove expressed his intention of carrying the case to the circuit court.

Species of Ferns.

The island of Mauritius, less than one-third the area of Delaware, has 285 native species of ferns; Java, a little larger than New York, has 460, while Brazil contains 387. All Europe furnishes but sixty-seven species, the arctic zone, 20; North America, north of Mexico, has about 175 native species.

Fruit and Insects.

Choice fruits, especially grapes, may often be protected from insect pests by the use of paper bags placed around the bunches and securely fastened by twine to the supporting shoot or cane. Bags may be put in place as soon as the blossoms have fallen.

Perfume in the Early Ages.

From the very earliest ages man has loved sweet odors. In the Bible we read of the burning of incense on the altars and the very word perfumery (under which head we may include all delicate fumes or smells) comes from the Latin fumus, smoke or vapor.

The early Egyptians knew the use of the still, and adapted it to the separation of the odorous principle from fragrant plants, but the most ancient odors were drawn from natural gums, such as camphor, myrrh and cinnamon.

GRAND JURY INDICTS FOX LAKE MAN

James L. Shaw was Indicted on Charge of Confidence Game

A. MEADE ALLEGED VICTIM

That James L. Shaw, who is well known throughout Lake county, especially in the vicinity of Fox Lake where he promoted the sale of a large subdivision, was recently indicted by the Lake county grand jury who reported April 24 became known Tuesday for the first time when Shaw, together with his attorney, N. Emmet Clark of Chicago, appeared in circuit court in Waukegan and made a motion to quash the indictment. State's Attorney Welch suppressed the list of indictments at the time they were returned, on the ground that those who had been indicted were not in custody. The charge on which Shaw was indicted was "obtaining property by means of a confidence game."

The indictment charges that Shaw obtained $1,000 of Alfred Meade of Grayslake. "The alleged transaction by which he is said to have obtained the money took place July 6, 1917.

Attorney J. K. Orvis called the matter to the attention of the state's attorney, resulting in the returning of the indictment. Shaw, according to Mr. Orvis, represented that he was promoting a big cemetery deal near Detroit, Mich. He was to act as broker, it is said, was to subdivide the property, and merely take a commission for his services. It is charged that Chicago men also were induced to loan money on the strength of the fact that the Lake county man had done so. Shaw is said to have given a bond for the faithful performance of his duties, but the charge is that the bond is worthless.

A tract of land actually was purchased near Detroit, but the charge is that it cost much less than the sum Shaw is alleged to have collected. It is said he has neglected to give an accounting.

M. E. Church Notes

Mothers' day will be observed Sunday May 11th, with appropriate service at 10:00 a. m. The evening service will be in the interests of the Epworth League anniversary.

The Sunday School broke all attendance records for April with an average of 125 for the month. The offerings for April 1919 were $10.22, and for the past month were $34.23. Hickory has more than fifty pupils enrolled.

On Monday evening the Epworth League held a social and business meeting at the church. The following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: President, Susan Tiffany; First Vice President, Lena Spafford; Second Vice President, Dortha Hucker; Third Vice President, Marguerite Savage; Fourth Vice Pres, Jessie Rynard; Sec'y Esther Hawkins; Treasurer, Albert Tiffany; Pianist, Lena Spafford.

The services of the church during April were in the interests of the Methodist Centenary. This event marks the one hundredth year of our missionary enterprise and one of the greatest undertakings planned by any church. A million in its prayer league, a large percentage of tithers in the membership, the enlistment of over fifty thousand missionaries and teachers and the raising of $105,000,000 for missionary purposes are some of the objects to be accomplished. This program will be for a period of five years. The amount asked of Antioch and Hickory including the annual benevolences is $1,700 yearly. Reports indicate that the churches are exceeding their apportionment by a considerable margin.

HENRY STRANG IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Newly Elected Commissioner of Waukegan Lies in an Unconscious Condition

ONE MAN KILLED OUTRIGHT

In an auto accident which occurred in Kenosha on last Saturday afternoon, Henry Strang, newly elected commissioner of the city of Waukegan and a man well known throughout the entire county, received injuries which may in the end cost him his life.

In the party at the time of the accident were five Waukegan men whom Mr. Erickson of Kenosha was taking to the station in his machine.

The fatal crash occurred at the corner of Elizabeth street and Salem ave. The automobile was going east while the car, one of the heavy, all-steel type was running west. Erickson is said to have turned to one side to avoid the street car, saw an automobile approaching at a rapid clip, became confused and turned back again, only to crash the heavy car. Occupants of the auto hurled to the pavement, the front of the machine being crushed like an eggshell.

An ambulance was summoned and the two men, Mr. Smith and Mr. Strang who were injured the most seriously were rushed to St. Catherine's hospital. Both were unconscious and it was believed then that both had suffered skull fractures.

Smith passed away within a few hours after reaching the hospital without ever regaining consciousness. Up to press time Strang has been conscious for only a few moments at a time at frequent intervals. His condition is regarded as very serious.

The other members of the party were Wm. Batty who suffered minor bruises and scratches, Harry Bang who was slightly bruised and shaken up and Frank Webb, who was painfully but not seriously bruised. The owner and driver of the car, Mr. Erickson was not hurt to any extent.

Mr. Strang is an uncle of Lee Strang of this village, and was the first person to open up a barber business for profit in the village of Antioch. The older residents of the community will remember that about thirty-five years ago he opened up a barber business in the office of the Simons House, later disposing of his business here to William Hodge and moving to Waukegan where he continued in the same business until very recently. When he started here he set the price of 10 cents for a shave and 25 cents for a hair cut and these prices prevailed until the advancing prices of recent years brought a change.

Frank Webb is also well known here, being a cousin of the Webb's of this place and being a frequent visitor in this locality.

World's Famous Streets. A certain difference of opinion appears to exist as to which is the most beautiful street in the world. Among those "in the running" may be mentioned: Princes street, Edinburgh, from which the city received her nickname of the "Athens of the North"; the Via X X Settembre, Genoa; Sackville street, Dublin; the Avenida Callao and the Plaza Mayo, both in Buenos Aires; the High street, Belfast; and the Unter den Linden, Berlin.

Don't Wait to Do Good Deeds. The good deeds we would do are brightened and made more prolific of beneficial results if we carry them out while the enthusiasm of our generous impulse is upon us. Have we not all experienced the warm desire to succor; postponed to a more convenient time (for us)—then dreaded for days until we finally drag ourselves to an accomplishment that makes of kindness a pitiful treadmill and bestows no sweet graciousness upon the recipient, who imminently feels the irksomeness of our beneficence?

To Wash a Flag.

If you fear that colors will run (which is likely in a cotton flag) wash it in gasoline and soap. Melt soap in a little water, add it to the gasoline and put in the flag. Rinse in clear fluid and hang up to dry without wringing.

New Invention.

An inventor has equipped a parachute with hand operated propellers on the theory that a user can guide his descent thereby.

Gurnee Child Smothered by Bed Clothing

Bernida, the eighteen months old twin daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Turner of Gurnee was smothered to death Wednesday morning, in its little bed alongside of its twin sister. The tragedy was caused by the bed clothing becoming twisted in such a way that the child was unable to breathe.

The accident was the cause of much excitement in the village of Gurnee where the Turner family is very well known, Mr. Turner being the agricultural teacher in the Warren township high school.

When Mr. Turner went to school in the morning the children were covered up in their bed asleep. He took a last look at them as he departed and Mrs. Turner went on with her work. She was busy with the family wash and soon took some of the clothes to the room above that occupied by the children. While hanging up the clothes she heard what appeared to be a cooling sound coming from the bed and presumed that the children were all right. However a little later she went to the room and to her surprise and horror found little Bernida almost dead. The frightened mother hurriedly called Dr. Young and did all in her power for the child but it died before the arrival of the physician.

The other child had managed to keep the bed clothing off its head and consequently was unharmed.

The Majestic Theater Moved to New Location

The Majestic theater was moved to its new location last Sunday afternoon, and the management now has everything in readiness to open the place to the public Saturday evening.

The Naber store has been completely remodeled and is now as modern and up to date a show house as will be found in much larger places.

The seating capacity is one hundred and seventy-five. A new gold fiber curtain has been purchased and was installed Wednesday afternoon by an expert from Chicago. Many changes have been made in the equipment and every effort will be made to give only first class shows.

The first play to be given in the new location is "The Greatest Thing in Life." This is a Griffith production, and is something you can't afford to miss. The first show starts at 7:00 o'clock sharp.

Weather Unfavorable For Last Sunday's Shoot

On account of the unfavorable weather of last Sunday only a small crowd attended the clay bird shoot, only five shooters in all. There was one event of twenty-five birds.

Ben Van Duzer 19-25.
Bill Belter 21-25.
Carl Barthell 19-25.
Earl Horton 18-25.
O. Hildebrandt 12-25.

Van Duzer and Barthell tied for second place.

The boys will shoot at Long Lake next Sunday.

Glasses for Appearance Sake.

"Miss Beasle, if you are going to town today, I wish you would buy my sister, who lives in the north, a pair of glasses." "Why, Annie," replied the young lady addressed, "I could not get your sister a pair of glasses. She must have her sight tested so that the glasses may be suitable." "Oh," said Annie reassuredly, "she wrote me that what fits my nose fits her nose!"

Not the Right Tune.

A certain man was angry one night and began to swear in the presence of his wife. The latter, thinking she might shame him into quitting, decided to imitate him and swore fervidly, using the same oaths that he did. He looked at her in amazement for a few minutes and then remarked, "Well, you have the same words but you haven't got the right tune." Exchange.

Josephus.

Flavius Josephus, the most celebrated of Jewish historians, was born at Jerusalem in 37. As a mark of gratitude for favors, he assumed the family name, Flavius, of the Roman emperor Vespasian. The date of his death is unknown. His most important works are "History of the Jewish War," "The Antiquities of the Jews," two treatises, "Against Apion of Alexandria" and "A Discourse on the Martyrdom of the Maccabees," and an account of his own life.

Two Fifty Per Hundred For May Milk

The co-operative Marketing Co. sales agency of the Milk Producers Association is asking $2.50 a hundred pounds for May milk, a decrease of 30 cents from the April price. The new price has been accepted by the Bowman and Borden companies. The price is lower than at any time in the last six months, and is still forty-five cents higher than for the same month of a year ago.

Early Irish Culture.

The evidences of early and medieval culture in Ireland are a multitude of beautiful things, classics of literature, but likewise wonders of creative art. Thus at Cong abbey, where sleep many of Ireland's ancient dead, and among them Rory O'Connor, the last king, there is an exquisite cross with gold traceries and delicate beauty of silver and copper and enamel and bronze, a proof of the civilization which with its Irishmen crossed to her shores might be multiplied.

DAPHNE AGAIN TURNS TO CLAY, BUT AS THEY PLAN FOR THE FUTURE A NEW BLOW FALLS.

Synopsis.—Clay Wimburn, a young New Yorker on a visit to Cleveland, meets pretty Daphne Kip, whose brother is in the same office with Clay in Wall street. After a whirlwind courtship they become engaged. Daphne goes to New York with her mother to buy her trousseau. Daphne's brother, Bayard, has just married and left for Europe with his bride, Lella. Daphne and her mother install themselves in Bayard's flat. Daphne meets Tom Duane, man-about-town, who seems greatly attracted to her. Daphne accidentally discovers that Clay is penniless, except for his salary. Bayard and his wife return to New York unexpectedly. The three women set out on a shopping excursion and the two younger women buy expensive gowns, having them charged to Bayard. Bayard is furious over the expense, seeing hard times ahead. Daphne, indignant, declares she will earn her own living and breaks her engagement with Clay. Through an introduction by Duane, Daphne induces Reben, a theatrical magnate, to give her a position in one of his companies. Her first rehearsal is a fiasco, but Reben, at Duane's request, gives her another chance. Sudden illness of Miss Kemble, the star, gives Daphne her chance, but her acting is a dismal failure. She is consoled by Tom Duane.

Satan or Raphael had whispered to her an invitation to revisit the scene of her late humiliation with Clay. With Duane's magic purse there would be no danger of a snub from the waiters; with his own car there would be no risk of footing it home.

Then an imp of mischief spoke for her and said, "All right!"

Duane told the chauffeur and the car shot like a javelin from the lighted street into the deep forest-night of Central park.

What would Clay say? But, after all, he had failed her in a crisis. Perhaps he had turned his heart elsewhere. Men were impatient, vindictive, fickle.

When Claremont was reached and Duane handed Miss Kip out he noted that her hand was hotter than his own and a little quick to escape, her face was flushed and her lips parted as if with excitement. He assumed that the speed of the ride and the taint of adventure were to blame.

While the waiters were serving the supper and while he was attacking it with the frank appetite of honest hunger she recounted the evening's disaster as calmly as if it were the story of somebody else. In fact, she was standing off and regarding herself with the eyes of an alien. We change so fast that the persons we were yesterday are already strangers, and their acts the acts of distant relatives. Her calm was really the numbness of shock. The anguish would come tomorrow.

"I can't understand myself at all," Daphne said. "I went through every one of the motions, but I couldn't reach the audience once. I was like a singer with a bad cold singing in a foreign language—you don't know what the song is all about, but you know that it never quite gets on the key."

"You mustn't be discouraged," "Oh, yes, I must! I couldn't be an actress in a thousand years. Mr. Baterson told me so himself."

Duane felt the truth of this, but it hurt him to have her feel it. It offended his chivalry to realize how impolite fate could be to so pretty a girl. He hated to see her reduced to the necessity of proving how plucky she could be. He tried to find an escape for her. He said:

"You're far too good for the stage." "I don't believe that for a minute," she protested. "But I've got to find something I can do."

"May I help you to decide?" "If you only would! But I'm getting to be a nuisance."

"You are a—me to you are a—well, you're not a nuisance." He dared not tell her what she was, especially as the waiter had set the bill at his elbow and was standing off in an attitude of ill-concealed impatience for the tip, which he knew would be large. Mr. Duane always gave the normal ten per cent and a bit extra. He tipped wisely but not too well, knowing that an extravagant tip wins a waiter's contempt almost more than none at all. The head waiter fairly cooed "Good night!" and almost gave them a blessing.

The starter had Mr. Duane's car waiting for him at the curb and lifted his hat with one hand as he smuggled a quarter away with the other. He stepped in to lay the linen laprobe over their knees with reverence, closed the door exultingly and murmured, "Good night!"

The car was an aristocrat; it floated from the curb with a swanlike sweep. Daphne thought of Clay and herself plodding homeward. She seemed to see them or their wraiths staggering disconsolately along. She felt very sorry for them. Here was a chance to save one of them—both of them, in fact; for in taking her financial burden from Clay's shoulders she would be twice strengthening him. If she were to accept Duane as her husband then her problems would be solved—and Clay would be free of her.

To lift her father out of the mire; to step into his shoes; to play the principal part and killed it, and now I'm not going on the stage any more."

ness in Cleveland to a post of distinction in New York; to solve at once all the hateful, loathsome, belittling riddles of money; to be the bejeweled and feted and idolized wife and mistress of this young American grand duke; to buy that impossible trousseau, or better; to live in a New York palace instead of a flat; to go about in her own limousine instead of an occasional taxicab; to be fortune's darling instead of a member of the working classes, struggling along with bent neck under a yoke beside a discouraged laboring man!

When the car reached her building she was resolved to see Duane no more. She could not tell him so. After all, he had been everything that was courteous and charity. It would hardly have been polite to treat him with absolute indifference. Duane got down and helped her out and took her to the door, which was locked at this late hour. While they waited for the doorman to answer the bell she was paying him his wages:

"You are wonderfully kind. I had a gorgeous evening. You saved my life." She had said more than she intended—if not more than he had earned.

"Then may I call soon?" "Of course." "Tomorrow?"

"I—well, I'll let you know." "Fine! Telephone me at—I'll write it out for you. I'm not often at the club where you found me, and my number isn't in the book." He wrote on his card his telephone address and gave it to her as the doorman appeared.

He murmured, "Don't forget." She murmured, "I won't." Both said "Good night." Then the doorman gathered her in and hoisted her to her lowly eyrie. It was very different from where she would have gone as Mrs. Duane.

But when she was in her room she wrote his card to pieces—after she had looked at it. She stared at her image there. She hated what she saw there.

She vowed to break her promise to Tom Duane. She vowed to forget his telephone number. But it danced about in the dark long after she had closed her eyes.

The next morning she overslept even beyond the extra hour the Chivvises permitted themselves and the stranger within their gates on Sundays.

When Daphne appeared at breakfast, trying not to yawn, Mrs. Chivvis greeted her with a voice as cold and dry as the toast, and as brittle:

"You were rather late getting in last night—or this morning, rather." Daphne's answer was not an explanation, but it was better:

"Oh, I know it, Mrs. Chivvis, but I lost my position last night. Yes! I played the principal part and killed it, and now I'm not going on the stage any more."

Mrs. Chivvis was touched. "You poor child! It really is—just too bad!" She pondered, then she brightened: "I'm sorry you're disappointed, but I'm glad you're not to be in the theater. It must be very wicked."

"It's mighty difficult," said Daphne. Mrs. Chivvis thought a moment more, then she said:

"Did I tell you?—No, I don't believe I did—you were away—but Mr. Chivvis gets his vacation next week. He's got to take it when his turn comes. The man who was going now couldn't be spared, so we have to leave Tuesday. I'm going, of course, so I can't give you your meals. You can get your breakfasts in the kitchenette. Of course I'll allow off whatever is right."

"Oh," Daphne said. "I'll be all right, I guess."

Daphne had not realized how much she depended on Mrs. Chivvis till now. She was to be left alone at the very time when she was most in need of society. The whole world was forsaking her.

CHAPTER XIII.

When the Chivvises had gone Daphne assailed the task of composing her letter of resignation from Reben's employment. It was not easy to resign with dignity and the necessary haste.

She sent it off by messenger. It was none too prompt, for Reben had already dictated a very polite request for Daphne's head. When he received her letter he recalled his stenographer and dictated a substitute for his first at learning Daphne's decision to resign; the former understudy had come back from the road, he said, and would resume her work. He begged Daphne to accept the enclosed check for two weeks' salary in lieu of the usual notice, and hoped that she would believe him faithfully hers.

Daphne felt a proud impulse to return the fifty dollars. She wrote a letter to go with it. She looked again, and saw it was the first money she had ever earned. She hated to let it go. She decided to frame it and keep it to point to in her future fortune.

Late in the afternoon, when the western sky was turning into a loom for crimson tapestries almost as rich as her own dreams, she went to her brother's apartment.

There the New Girl found the Old Woman in the throes of finance. Lella had brought her check book and her bank book to her husband. Her affairs were in a knot.

He laughingly offered to help her. She was hurt by his laughter, but not half so deeply as he was by his discovery of her monetary condition. He had established her bank account in a mood of adoration, a precious sacrifice on the altar of love. She had not cherished it, but scattered it heedlessly. And money was peculiarly precious now in the final agonies of the hard times, when only the fittest of the fittest could survive the last tests. Credit was the water cask, and dollars were the hard biscuits of a boatload of survivors from a wreck. Land might be reached if they held out, but self-denial was vital.

Bayard gazed at Lella with wondering love and terror. She was both divinity and devil in his eyes. He groaned:

"Are you trying to wreck me? You know how hard I'm working and how much I need money in my business and how much it means to your future, but you won't stop buying and charging and burning my poor little earnings. We discharged a stenographer yesterday because we wanted to save her salary of fifteen dollars—and here's a check for a pair of shoes for you that cost sixteen."

"But tell me one thing more before I'm carted off to Bloomingdale in a straitjacket. Why, in heaven's name, why—admitting you just had to have that pitiful little pair of shoes—why, when you wrote the check, didn't you subtract it from your balance instead of adding it? I ask you!"

"Oh, did I do that?" she asked, looking over his shoulder. "So I did!" and she put her cheek close to his and giggled.

He shook his head in imbecile infatuation, and drew her around into his arms.

That was what Daphne overheard when the maid let her in. She found Lella resting in Bayard's lap.

Bayard did not tell Daphne what his conference with Lella had been. He simply closed the check book and the bank book and said to Lella: "I'll send the bank my check for thirty-eight cents and ask 'em to close their account. They'll be mighty glad to do it."

"And so will I," said Lella. "It was awfully hard work keeping track of every little penny. I'd much rather have a regular allowance in cash every week."

"All right!" said Bayard. "We'll try that—next week."

Daphne was not told what all this talk was about, but she made a fair guess, though she pretended not to.

She told about her failure and her future and Lella praised her courage and her optimism. They dined cheerfully and Bayard decided that the best preparation for the hard work ahead of him would be an evening of gaiety. He invited his wife and his sister to go with him to the Winter Garden, where the typical "Sunday concert" of New York was given.

CHAPTER XIV.

Then the Chivvises came back from their vacation unexpectedly early. They had found the hotels expensive and Mr. Chivvis was afraid that his job would be snatched from him if he were not there to hold it down.

Clay called on Daphne that evening and the Chivvises retreated to their own room. But as they could be overheard it was evident that they could overhear, and the lovers found no chance to say any of the things that frightened their souls.

One evening Daphne said to Clay in as low a voice as he could hear: "Mrs. Chivvis is growing uneasy, honey, about our being together every evening. I told her we were engaged, but she didn't seem convinced. Perhaps you would let me wear that beautiful engagement ring again. I was a fool to give it back to you, May I have it or—"

Clay blenched in misery. "I—I'm afraid I— You see, I hadn't paid much on it; and last week I had an insulting letter from the jeweler. He threatened to sue me and notify my firm, and I—well, I had to send it back."

He was so downcast that she answered with mock cheer: "Oh, that's all right, honey; it doesn't matter. After all, it's only a ring. And we have each other."

"But we haven't each other. This way of living is driving me crazy. I'll be all right as soon as these hard times are over and I can make some commissions. But it's so dismal to wait. Couldn't we get married and live on my salary?"

"I could if you could."

He caught her in his arms so violently that she squealed. The next day Clay telephoned to her his firm had just offered him the choice of accepting half his salary or turning in his resignation. It was really impossible for two to live on half of what was hardly enough for one.

Daphne cried a long while in her room. She got out her list of ways to earn fifty thousand dollars again and cried over that.

There is much foolish and futile protest against the nowadays woman who goes into business outside her home. But the fact is that it is her business that began it. Her business left the home first and she is merely following it to the places where new conditions and inventions have centralized and mechanized it.

New conditions have taken her distant and her wash tub and her cookery and gossip into the woolen mills and steam laundries and restaurants and telephone exchanges. She has had to go thither to do her necessary work. Even the entertainers, the singers, dancers, tellers of stories, who used to stir the sergios and the castle halls have been gathered into opera houses and theaters and into vaudeville and moving picture palaces.

Daphne, having no gifts for spinning, cooking, or laundry, tried the theater. Her old-fashioned lover protested, and she went, anyway. But she was not suited to the theater, and she retreated with nothing to show for her expedition except her shattered pride and the fifty-dollar check for two weeks' salary.

"Oh, Did I Do That?" She Asked, Looking Over His Shoulder.

Daphne began anew to hunt for work; work, the thrice blessing that kills time and makes money and tames her. But the world seemed to be of every other trouble except hers. Even had she been skilled, as was not, it would have availed her, since skilled laborers were being turned off by the thousands. And filled laborers were being turned the tens of thousands.

Clay had saved nothing against the season. He had found his salary small for his courtship requisites; that his salary was halved his ship had to be reduced to the sum of expense.

Clay and Lella had more money than, and they made ambitious vs. But Daphne and Clay must stay with the other stay-at-home m. Clay denied himself even the ticks' vacation allotted to him. He took his, however, and carried Lella Had Decided That It Was Better For Her Health to Stay at Newport Till the Cooler Weather Came and Her Summer Wardrobe Had Been Worn Out.

Lella off to Newport, where they boarded humbly, if expensively. While they were gone, at their suggestion, Daphne moved down into their apartment. It was large and beautiful, and, as Clay said, it was "not infested with Chivvises."

Now and then Clay quarreled with Daphne because of her obstinate determination to have a trade of her own. Then they made up. And quarreled anew—lovers' quarrels, summer storms that break the sultry tension of the air and make peace endurable.

Bayard came back alone. Lella had decided that it was better for her health to stay at Newport till the cooler weather came and her summer wardrobe had been worn out. So Bayard joined the army of town-tied husbands, the summer widowers. He went back once a week on furlough to spend a Newport Sabbath with his wife. He became one of the Friday-night-to-Monday-morning excursionists. There was leisure enough in his office.

He insisted on Daphne's keeping her room in his apartment, and of evenings he afflicted himself to her and Clay and made their company a crowd. But they welcomed him as a chaperon of a sort. Also, he paid his way with liberality, except for occasional spasms of retrenchment, when he economized atrociously. He predicted that good times would never come again. The whole world had gone to pot and would never come out.

Suddenly he changed his tune; suddenly the whisper went about that hard times were ending.

In his bachelor days, when Bayard was growing in commercial stature like a young giant, he had regarded his business with all the warmth of a poet. His office building was his Acropolis and his office the peculiar temple of his muse; and her name was Profit. He thrilled like a poet to the epic inspiration of a big sale, and he knew a joy akin to the poet's revision of his scanion if he devised a scheme for reducing overhead charge or wastage.

Bayard, led on by the visions of riches to be won in Wall street, draws all his savings from the bank and begins speculating in stocks. Then at shot off Sarajevo rang out the first of the frightful nightmare of war. Bayard was among the first casualties. Read about it in the next installment.

Raining "Cats and Dogs." In England the male blossoms of the willows are called "cats and dogs" and a rainstorm would shake them off and strew them on the ground. Hence arose the expression "raining cats and dogs."

DAIRY PROFITS BIG

Splendid Returns From Farms in Western Canada.

Production of Butter and Cheese, Commanding Highest Prices, Increases Steadily—Live-Stock Raisers at Height of Prosperity.

Dairying is rapidly approaching one of the first positions in Western Canada agriculture. This does not apply particularly to any one of the three Western Canada provinces, as they all participate in the distinction.

A report recently published by the Alberta Department of Agriculture shows that in 1918, in spite of adverse conditions of labor and the high cost of feed there was no decline in the industry. It will be interesting to know that the average number of milch cows per farm is 5.6. The total production of creamery butter in the provinces in 1918 was 9,400,000, as against 8,944,000 pounds in 1917.

No better evidence of the growth of Western Canada can be given than by the fact that in ten years the production of butter has increased from 2,600,000 pounds and of cheese from 88,570 pounds to 650,000 pounds. When it is known that in the production of grain so much energy was placed, and through which bank deposits were increased, homes made comfortable, farms carefully tilled, it will be realized that the increase in dairy production has been remarkable. During the past four years the price to the producer increased 75 per cent.

Further evidence of the great interest taken in the dairy and livestock industries is found in recent bull sales. At Edmonton the average price of 141 was $231.00; at Calgary 784 head were sold, bringing an average price of $200.19; while at Lacombe 170 bulls brought an average of $191.34. Sales in Manitoba a few days ago were fully as good as an average, or better. The sales were attended by farmers from all parts of the country. The high prices paid show that good stock was required, and, no matter the price, the farmer had the money to pay for it. As evidence of this we find that at a sale recently held at Carman, Manitoba, buyers were present from all parts of the province, besides some from foreign points. Five head of registered Shorthorn cows brought $500 each.

The establishment of creameries and cheese factories throughout the entire West is on the increase, and it will only be within the period of a very few years before Western Canada will occupy a position in the first ranks in the dairy production of the continent.

There is complete government supervision over creameries and cheese factories. The government takes care of the sales, looks after the manufacturer and employs as heads of the institutions highly paid and efficient managers.

It may well be said that the dairy industry in Western Canada is rapidly coming into its own. At present it is but an adjunct to the parent or foremost industry of the country—the growing of grain, but while an adjunct, it is a highly important one. The price of farm lands is gradually increasing, but not in the rapid proportion that has been shown in other countries. This rise in price does not materially increase the cost of production, nor lessen the profits that may be derived from an acre of wheat, oats or barley. The advance in the prices of these grains has more than doubled; the use of tractors has lessened the cost.

The reports from government sources are that the present year will show a great increase in immigration over the past four or five years. The man who has made a tour of inspection of the country will give you the reason. He will speak of the fertile soil, of the good crops, of the attractive climate, of the school system, the almost perfect social conditions that prevail. He will have visited settlements composed almost solely of Americans, who have built up their homes and villages, who have brought, and are applying, today, their experience in economic land culture as applied to large tracts with the result that he obtains yields on $30 an acre land equal to that formerly produced on land that he had sold for $200 an acre. The story of his success has been sent back to his friends in his home state. They in turn follow him, and so it goes on, and immigration to Western Canada increases.—Advertisement.

"As You Were" Defined. A British officer who has just returned from German East Africa tells an amusing story of the Askari recruits whom he was training. Mistakes in the drill were frequent, and, in consequence, "As you were" became an order rapped out with increasing severity of expression. Later the officer overheard a conversation between two natives in the squad. "What does our officer mean by 'As you were'?" inquired one Askari. "Answer," replied the other, "is a word the Englishman has invented for when he wants to say 'I am sorry, I have made a mistake.'"

Men famous Rainbow division, the 42nd the largest part of the returns. They were welcomed by cores and friends and relatives every part of the Union.

There had not been an American division since that exalted what the Red had done. From November 1, the date of its arrival at St. Nazaire until December 15, 1918, when, part of the American army of ocean, it took a position in Ahrweiler Germany, it had been identified 45 stations throughout France Belgium.

The lion was cited ten times by the army and six times by the American commanders under whom it served.

Members of the division have received two medals of honor, 250 distinguished service medals, 175 croix de guerre, 10 legions of honor, five medallions militaries and 10 Belgian decorations.

In killed, wounded and missing the division lost 430 officers and 13,455 men, its greatest casualty list following the Alsace-Marne offensive July 24 to August 6, last year, which cost 184 officers and 5,400 men.

The transports Mt. Vernon, Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm and Touraine arrived down the bay early in the morning, and were surrounded by small craft bearing welcoming committees as they drew up toward quarantine. Brig. Gen. Robert Alexander, who commanded the 72nd division in the final stages of the war, was aboard the Mt. Vernon which carried 4,304 officers and men from the New York division.

The Touraine brought 389 casualties and the Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm 1,090 troops, including medical detachments. Aboard the battleship North Carolina were 1,593 men, including the 167th Infantry, headquarters and supply companies and other small units. The battleship Montana moved up the harbor before noon with 1,508 men, consisting of the 83rd Infantry brigade headquarters, the 107th Infantry machine gun company, medical detachment, 2nd and 3rd battalion headquarters, companies B, F, G, H, I and K, 58 officers and 1,407 enlisted men.

13 U. S. SAILORS DROWN

Men Were Returning to Battleship Nevada When Their Launch Capsized—Only One Saved.

New York, April 29.—Thirteen sailors returning in a navy launch to the battleship Nevada were reported by the police to have drowned when the launch sank in the Hudson river off One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street early Monday. The police said that in the absence of an official statement by the naval authorities they used the report on information from persons who said they witnessed the sinking and heard the cries of drowning sailors. Those witnesses declared that the launch apparently collided with something just before reaching the Nevada and they had a clear view of what was taking place because of the navy searchlights playing on the scene. There were 14 persons in the launch, one being rescued, according to the police.

Physicians Recommend Castor

YOU know the real human doctors right around in your neighborhood: the doctors made of flesh and blood just like you: the doctors with souls and hearts: those men who are responding to your call in the dead of night as readily as in the broad daylight; they are ready to tell you the good that Fletcher's Castoria has done, is doing and will do, from their experience and their love for children.

Fletcher's Castoria is nothing new. We are not asking you to try an experiment. We just want to impress upon you the importance of buying Fletcher's.

Your physician will tell you this, as he knows there are a number of imitations on the market, and he is particularly interested in the welfare of your baby.

Children Cry For Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Do the People Know?

Do you know why you are asked to call for Fletcher's Castoria when you want a child's remedy: why you must insist on Fletcher's? For years we have been explaining how the popularity of Fletcher's Castoria has brought out innumerable imitations, substitutes and counterfeits.

To protect the babies: to shield the homes and in defense of generations to come we appeal to the better judgment of parents to insist on having Fletcher's Castoria when in need of a child's medicine. And remember above all things that a child's medicine is made for children—a medicine prepared for grown-ups is not interchangeable. A baby's food for a baby. And a baby's medicine is just as essential for the baby.

The Castoria Recipe (it's on every wrapper) has been prepared by the same hands in the same manner for so many years that the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and perfection in the product are synonymous.

D. W. GRIFFITH'S GREAT STORY OF VICTORY

The Creeping Barrage

Like the shadow on the earth of a cloud crossing the sun, the creeping barrage went forward.

From artillery, miles back, the shells dropped death on the German trenches.

Behind the protecting curtain the Yanks advanced, bayonets ready, grenades in hand.

Above, a bombing aeroplane darted like an angry wasp through the reek of battle.

Now you are in the midst of it with an American boy. Now you are back of the German lines where the girl he loves is in peril.

The Yanks are coming! But will they reach her in time?

It's a moment of terrible suspense!

For the first time in motion pictures you are taken into the line back of a creeping barrage. For the first time you charge side by side with the army of Yanks over No Man's Land.

It shows you why the Germans had to quit.

Robert Harron is the American boy. Lillianish is the girl. You saw them in those wonderful D. W. Griffith pictures "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance," "Hearts of the World" and "The Great Love."

Proof that women bowlers are becoming quite efficient in the alley game is shown from the high mark made by Effie Seymour at the Arcade alley a short time ago when she rolled a score. Mrs. Seymour will compete in coming tournament as a member of Inden's Dynamite team. This was taken from a Milwaukee press and is reprinted on account of Seymour being so well known. After the above score was printed previous records were looked up and Seymour was found to hold the record for women bowlers.

ITALY MOVES TO ANNEX FIUME

London Has Report That Rome Intends to Defy the Allies.

MAY SEIZE ALL DALMATIA

Italian Parliament Has Been Summoned for Tuesday, a Week Earlier Than It Had Been Originally Scheduled to Meet.

London, April 28.—The Italian parliament has been summoned for Tuesday, which is a week earlier than it had been originally scheduled to meet, according to a Central News dispatch.

Premier Orlando will lay before the parliament a plan for immediate annexation of the Trentino, the Upper Adige, Trieste, Istria, Fiume and Dalmatia.

Thomas Nelson Page, United States ambassador, has left Rome for Paris to tender his resignation to President Wilson, the dispatch says.

A conference is being held in Rome, according to current report, preparatory to presenting the entire case to the Italian people.

No matter what attitude Italy may assume, according to American advisers from Paris, so far as President Wilson is concerned, his public position will be adhered to regardless of the attitude of the other governments.

It is contended that President Wilson visited Europe at the invitation of the allied governments and was prepared to accept a peace program along the lines they had publicly endorsed.

London, April 28.—The American ambassador to Italy, Thomas Nelson Page, resigned more than a month ago, according to a letter Ambassador Davis (United States ambassador to Great Britain) received at that time. First Secretary of Legation Edward Bell said here.

Washington, April 28.—The orders to Rear Admiral Phillips Andrews, in command of the American naval force in the Mediterranean, to look after American interests at Spalato and elsewhere in Italy were sent from Paris, according to state and navy department officials.

Admiral Andrews' best ship is the Olympia, a protected cruiser. The rest of his squadron consists of seven destroyers and about half dozen submarine chasers.

Officials here do not regard the orders to Admiral Andrews as indicating there is immediate necessity of landing soldiers or marines in Italy. The orders he has as customarily issued when there are continued reports that American life or property is in danger.

The opinion of officials here is that Admiral Andrews would take the proper steps within his wide discretion as a commander in foreign waters, whether or not he had received direct instructions.

MEXICO AND FRANCE AT ODDS

Refusal to Receive Minister Seen as Protest Against President Carranza's Methods.

Washington, April 28.—Diplomatic circles here believe the refusal of France to receive Alberto J. Pani, as minister from Mexico, was caused by protests by French bankers against seizure of the French banks in Mexico by the Carranza government. Carranza, it was said, had known for some months the feeling of the French government and was much chagrined when Mexico was not invited to the conference of neutral nations in connection with the peace conference. It also has been intimated to Mexico that she would not be given a place in the league of nations until she had modified her policy in dealing with aliens and foreign investors. When it became known in Mexico that she was to be barred from the league there was an instant uproar. This began about the middle of March and has continued to the present.

BIG FRUIT INTERESTS MERGE

Orchards in Six States Formed into a $100,000,000 Corporation, Is Report.

Wenatchee, Wash., April 28.—Hundreds of acres of Wenatchee valley apple orchards will be included in the largest merger of fruit interests ever formed, the American Fruit Growers, Inc., according to local representatives of the new corporation. The corporation, formed under Delaware laws, they said, plans to take over and operate all citrus orchards of an estate apple and citrus orchards of an estimated value of $100,000,000 in Pennsylvania, New York, West Virginia, Florida, California and Washington.

Split Pleases Austrians.

Vienna, April 29.—The withdrawal of the Italian delegation from the peace conference was received here with elation, the people generally being glad to see the allies in conflict with each other.

Turn Over New Destroyer.

Norfolk, Va., April 29.—The Destroyer Thomas, built by the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock company, has just been delivered to the navy here and immediately placed in commission.

SAM GOMPERS HURT

A. F. OF L. PRESIDENT INJURED IN NEW YORK.

His Cab Is Struck by Street Car on Broadway—Suffers Broken Ribs.

New York, April 28.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was seriously injured when a surface car of the Broadway line struck his taxicab at Forty-first street and Broadway.

The cab was demolished and Mr. Gompers suffered two broken ribs, a sprained hip and contusions of the body. He was unconscious when extricated from the wreckage and was carried into the Hotel Continental.

An ambulance was called and after Dr. Samuel Bolensweig dressed the injuries Mr. Gompers remained at the hotel.

The taxicab driver, who was thrown to the street, escaped with a few bruises.

The taxi was passing through Forty-first street, taking the labor leader to his home at 918 West Fifty-first street, when a surface car in charge of Motor man Haryana struck the rear end of the cab and hurled it 20 feet.

Broadway was crowded and half a dozen men who witnessed the accident tore the wreck of the cab apart and found Mr. Gompers unconscious.

The cab driver tried to cross the tracks in front of the approaching car, which was going north. The rear wheels of the taxicab were still on the tracks when the car struck the cab and whirled it onto the east driveway of Broadway.

The sides of the cab were driven in and Mr. Gompers was crushed between them, the full force of the collision having struck one sent.

LEAGUE ADOPTED BY PEACE BY

Revised Covenant of League of Nations Approved by Delegates in Paris.

WILSON EXPLAINS CHANGES

Japan Change on Race Issue Is Drawn—French Also Withdraws Amendments and All Envoys O. K. the Covenant.

Paris, April 30.—The revised covenant of the league of nations adopted by the plenary session of a peace conference without division and without amendment. The covenant had been moved by President Wilson.

The president said it was not necessary to emphasize the significance of the great covenant and the hopes entertained that a conference of the free nations of the world would maintain justice in their international relations and peace between the nations.

The Japanese and French amendments were withdrawn and it is understood they have been left for decision by the league of nations itself.

The text of the labor principles for insertion in the treaty was adopted, and the conference adjourned without considering responsibilities.

President Wilson, in his speech explaining the revised covenant of the league of nations, said that Sir Eric Drummond of Great Britain had been named as the first secretary general of the league.

Sir Eric Drummond has been private secretary to A. J. Balfour, the British foreign secretary, since December, 1910. Previously he had served Sir Edward (now Viscount) Gray in the same capacity, while Sir Edward was foreign secretary. From March, 1912, to June, 1915, he was private secretary to Herbert H. Asquith, then the British premier.

Regarding the composition of the executive council, the president said that Belgium, Brazil, Greece and Spain would be represented on the council. In addition to the five great powers until a permanent choice had been made.

Presentation of the amended league of nations covenant by President Wilson marked the opening of the session. The president then explained the various alterations.

The president moved that the powers name representatives to form a committee of nine to prepare plans to organize the league and establish the sent of the league.

Baron Makino of the Japanese delegation spoke after President Wilson and said he regretted that the president's speech had not been translated. He then moved the Japanese amendment on racial equality.

He said it was a race question, with the possibility of becoming acute. The equality of nations, he ascribed, should be a fundamental principle of the league.

The Japanese statesman added that he felt it his duty to state the poignant regret of the Japanese delegation over the failure of the league of nations committee to do justice to the Japanese demand which was based on a deep-rooted national conviction.

Japan, he added, was obliged to revert to her original position on this question.

Leon Bourgeois, former premier, spoke for France. He said that the French amendments to the league, including a demand for a national army and police force and the limitation and verification of armaments of all nations, had not been adopted.

France, however, would sign the pact, M. Bourgeois said.

ALLIES TO TRY EX-KAISER

Former Emperor Is Charged Guilty of Supreme Offense Against International Morality.

Paris, April 30.—At a plenary session of the peace conference the council of four presented the text of a peace treaty provision for the prosecution of former Emperor William by a court of five judges "for a supreme offense against international morality and the sanctity of treaties."

The articles propose that a special tribunal, composed of five judges, one from each of the five great powers, be formed to try the former emperor, and that the government of the Netherlands be requested to surrender him.

The articles also provide that all others who have been responsible for plunging the world into war be brought before this tribunal, and that in cases where there has been an offense against an individual nation, trials shall be conducted by that nation.

Women Served.

In September, 1917, the British war office proclaimed it needed 10,000 women before the end of October for a new Auxiliary corps for home and overseas service. Mrs. Chalmers Watson, sister of Sir Auckland and Sir Eric Geddes, was made first chief controller. About 10,000 women enrolled for were recruited thereafter. They were the duration of the war. They replaced men in England and France, cooking, laundering, driving automobiles, doing stenographic work, etc. Other British women served in the Women's Royal Naval Service, "Wrens," and in the women's division of the Royal Flying Corps, "Penguins." These women form part of the British military and naval forces and are subject to military discipline.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming the conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is so realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

At examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview of the subject, made the following statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the commission of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Official statistics as to the 1918 harvest in Spain show that the crops were as follows, in metric tons: Wheat, 8,003,420; barley, 1,970,843; oats, 442,830; rye, 773,339; corn, 613,225; rice, 207,948, and chickpeas, 110,727.

Its Kind.

"I heard this gossip over the telephone."

"Oh, that is only hearsay talk."

The frankness with which a seventeen-year-old girl refers to herself as an old maid is certainly amusing.

Love is not blind, but in a lot of cases he's cross-eyed.

MY HEAD!

When the head feels thick or aches, when one feels all out-of-sorts—perhaps a coated tongue—it is the signal that poisons are accumulating in the system, and should be cleaned out at once.

Auto-intoxication can be best ascribed to our own neglect or carelessness. When the organs fail in the discharge of their duties, the putrefactive germs set in and generate toxins—actual poisons, which fill one's own body.

Sleepiness after meals, flushing of the face, extreme lassitude, biliousness, dizziness, sick headache, acidity of the stomach, heartburn, offensive breath, anemia, loss of weight and muscular power, decrease of vitality or lowering of resistance to infectious diseases, disturbance of the eye, dyspepsia, indigestion, gastritis, many forms of catarrh, asthma, ear affections and

Fathers— Invest for Your Children

Have you ever thought that the first $100 saved in childhood has been the beginning of many a fortune?

Instill into your children right now the habit of saving and making investments. Start them with as many subscriptions to the Victory Liberty Loan as you can give them—and they will bless your memory in the years to come.
